

COASTAL CAROLINA UNIVERSITY

Department of English, Communication and Journalism
Thomas W. and Robin W. Edwards College of Humanities and Fine Arts

July 2, 2007

To Whom It May Concern:

Please allow this correspondence to serve as a letter of recommendation on behalf of Lorna Bracewell. Lorna has enhanced our instructional mission this year by her participation in BracedWell: Uniting our Community against Gender Violence, held in March and April, 2007, here at Coastal Carolina University.

Of course Lorna's live musical performances were outstanding, but I wanted to take a moment to reflect on and thank her for her workshop creation and discussion facilitation. While Lorna was visiting with us, she created and facilitated three separate workshops to contribute to our curriculum: (1) a workshop for Communication Law and Ethics students that provided an overview of state and federal legislation, and ethical perspectives, pertaining to domestic violence; (2) a workshop for advanced communication and women's studies students that complexified feminist theory; and, (3) a workshop for advanced communication research students that introduced them to social action research and community activism. Each workshop was well attended, well received, and highly successful.

Lorna truly lives her activism, and her willingness to share her advocacy with us, was a special treat indeed.

Sincerely yours,

Dr. Deborah Cunningham Walker
Assistant Professor
/dw